What Are School District Bonds

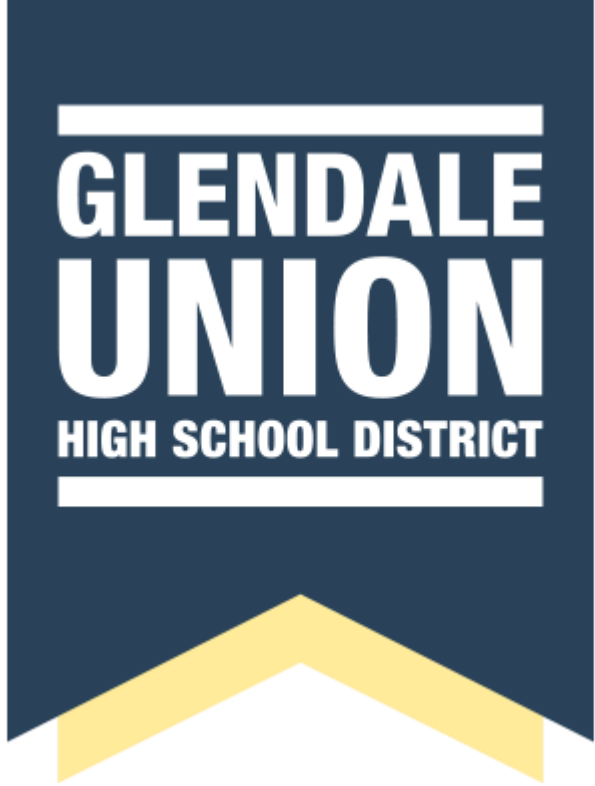

- An agreement between the school district and those who hold the bonds that in exchange for money today, the district will repay bondholders principal and interest over future years. Bonds must be approved by district voters.
- Proceeds from bond sales may be used for construction, facility renovations, upgrades and some limited capital needs.

What Are Bonds Used For

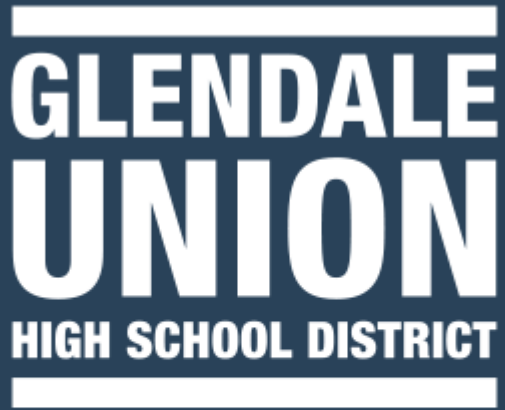

Excellence: Yesterday, Today & Tomorrow

Tax Impact On Property Owners

A bond issue for $130 million dollars would NOT increase the tax rate for property owners in the Glendale Union High School District.

Why Do Districts Need to Issue Bonds

- State funding for school renovation has been virtually eliminated
- Aging facilities
- Safety improvements
- Security improvements
- Technology
- Transportation vehicles
- Infrastructure upgrades
- Support co-curricular & extracurricular programs
- Support instructional programs
